

2. There was a house lying in the countryside, where people retreated from the hustle and bustle of city life. Originally, people living there led a slow-paced life, and there was always a song in every heart and happiness in every step. However, all the things had gone different overnight. A strong earthquake struck the place seeming like a paradise at first, and house started ^{to} shake. Due to the unstable construction, the house collapsed. As luck would have it, the owner of the house escaped from the house narrowly. He sorrowfully looked at his beloved shelter, ^{which was} filled with abundant memory.

Once receiving the sad news, the authorities concerned took emergency steps. The government supplied food and drinks to this earthquake-stricken area. Charity workers also came to help the victims search their family in the remains. After the news were received by the whole world, people started to donate money to the terrible region, hoping to do something for the victims. Most important of all, government should help them reconstruct their homeland, arrange sufficient place for them to stay in temporarily. And we all hope that the victims will go through the difficulty, and that we can see the paradise sparkling again.