

二. 英文作文:

Dear Barbie:

A little bird told me that you have been playing an Internet game, Tetris, recently. Playing Tetris indeed can be beneficial in some way. According to a study I read online, it can not only help you to think more logically but also train your speed of reacting to emergency.

It is also said that Tetris is one of the most widely-played games, which means you can expand your relationship while playing it.

However, everything is harmful when it comes to addiction. I believe that you spend all of your leisure time hanging online and battling against your opponants. First of all, it may sabotage your eyesight seriously when you focus on the computer screen thoroughly for a long period of time. The shape of your eyeballs will no longer be round, but oval-shaped, leaving you near-sighted.

Secondly, staying up late is definitely an unwise decision. Not only can it severely damage your immune system, it can also ravage your angelic appearance. Since you yearn for being a model and care much about your looking, you probably wouldn't want to look like a panda, would you? What's more, everyone noticed that your performance on school has descended considerably during this semester. Neither do you hand in your homework on time, you nor excell in tests anymore. Most important of all, your abnormal action has caused your parents' anxiety about your future. Although they scold you and condemn you, they do all these things actually out of their love.

As your best friend, I strongly suggest that you stop playing Tetris immediately. There are many ways to relax apart from indulging yourself in online games. In replacement, you can read novels instead. On one hand, it can help refresh your brain from schoolwork and serve as an educational entertainment. On the other hand, you can explore different cultures and broaden your horizons. Yet, you have to keep in mind that you must refrain yourself from hooked on it. Set up some goals and accomplish them before purchasing a novel. Lastly, I hope you can apologize to your parents and promise to be a diligent student again.

Sincerely, Jill
