School is the place where most people go to in the first couple of years in their lifetime. From a toddler to a full-grown adult, school is like the second home to us all. Since we spend so much time in it, the importance of campus safety cannot be overemphasized. Without campus safety, schools will become the target for villains who are looking for chances to approach children and harm them. There is an incident that occurred years ago that a man with a knife entered the campus and killed a boy who went to the restroom when it was class-time. This incident has raised concern of campus safety in Taiwan. The public realized that real terrible things will happen if we don't put focus on it. Students might be hurted, taken away, or even killed if we keep neglecting this issue.

Therefore, solutions have been proposed to deal with this problem. And thankfully campus safety of Taiwan has been improved. Being a member of the campus, I think the first thing we should do is ask the guards at the school gate to confirm the identity of anyone who enters, and guests should leave their identity cards at the guard room while they are in school. Also, any entrances that criminals are likely to get into should be under supervision. For instance, there might be more than just one gate in a campus; people can get inside either from other gates or the basement. These places should also be guarded. The last thing is what I think everyone in the school, no matter how old they are, should do. We must report any suspicious person we see in campus to the teacher. If they did slip inside, the only thing we can do then is stop them from approaching anyone. By following these tips, we will have nothing to worry about in terms of our safety in school.
